

Ive Hermans obtained his PhD and a postgraduate degree in Business Administration from KU Leuven University in 2006. He became Assistant Professor in 2008 at the Institute for Chemical and Bioengineering of ETH Zurich in Switzerland. In January 2014, Prof. Hermans joined the University of Wisconsin-Madison, holding a dual appointment in the Department of Chemistry and the Department of Chemical and Biological Engineering. He was co-founding editor-in-chief of ChemistryEurope (Wiley) and currently serves as Associate Editor for ACS Sustainable Chemistry and Engineering. In June 2025 he accepted a position as Bloomberg Distinguished Professor for Sustainable Chemical Transformations at Johns Hopkins University. His work and mentoring is well recognized in the community, e.g. through the ExxonMobil Chemical European Science & Engineering Award (2009), the Postdoc Mentoring Award by the UW Postdoctoral Association (2016), the Robert Augustine Award from the Organic Reaction Catalysis Society (2017), the Ipatieff Prize in from the American Chemical Society (2019). Ive was named an ACS fellow in 2023, and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Chemistry (RSC) in 2024. In 2025, Prof Hermans was elected as a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS) and a foreign member of the Royal Academy of Belgium for the Arts and Science.
